What's new:

on a Personal Level 06 July 2016, 14:23 SYRIA: live journalist from Kurbat Naymar and safe messenger of EsberBaramah gains a better view of the War in the Middle-East. Today the conflict moved far way from Damascus and a new front - the Syrian-Turkish border, 9 km. from the center of Aleppo (ca. 50 km from Idlib). But I choose to believe that from the ashes of Aleppo, another one will arise: a new, powerful and independent country that will be not only for the Syrian people, but also for the rest of the world. - Jeremy Corbyn after bombing Aleppo * I was jolted by the sound of broken glass while passing the Al Majdan area in Aleppo today. It was actually the sound of long pipes that the regime dropped bombs via a plane on the oldest and one of the most populated areas in the north of the city. They were the tubes of the smoke that say its beginning. I had never seen that in Aleppo, where the regime has masterfully used the attacks on residential areas as a psychological weapon and made people forget the real objective of the coup attempts and the places where they happen. But at the same time, even the area from where I was was not abandoned by the people: I met people from the oldest areas of Aleppo, but they are so optimistic about the future of the city that they can smile even in such difficult times. Not because of the SYRI-TURK or RUSSIA, but just because since the day when we started to fight for our freedom, with an open war and with a peaceful revolution, Aleppo has been the most strategic and richest city in Syria. This is why the general regime propaganda was centered on the eastern part of the city, the one from where they said they will fight, but in reality they did not change their original plan to dislocate Aleppo. For now, the only change is that the intensity of the attacks on the city is less. In fact, whenever the attacks are less intense, people feel optimistic. * The attackers with Ababil attack the regime's positions on the frontline of Idlib at Kursaya square in Aleppo  The regime's campaign to create dissent in Syria faced another setback after rebels of Al-Hamza Battalion took control of Salman Branch (the exclusive and most luxurious part of Aleppo), which is close to Atareb. Vlad the Impaler: Vlad the Impaler is one of the most well-known characters of medieval history. Vlad the Impaler Attacks: Vlad the Impaler is a fast-moving vampire, capable of performing all of the vampire attacks. When not in combat, he is stealthy and fast on his feet. His primary attack is a laser-like beam that will lock on to a single target and travel to it at great speeds. His least successful attack is his melee attack that involves his spiked gauntlets and the open palm of his hand. Vlad the Impaler Items: Vlad the Impaler has a variety of items he can use in combat. These include a short spear, long spear, long-handled axe, sword, bell and whip.
