I want to extract the day of the month of a date like this: $y = 2004; $m = "12"; $d = "03"; echo date("d",mktime(0, 0, 0, $m, $y, $d)). " "; but the return is: 3 what I need is: 03 I don't want to save into the file the day and month, I want just the day of the month... how to achieve that? A: You've to get first day of the month of the current date by using date_default_timezone_set() and then calculate the day of the current date The present invention relates to a conveyance system, and particularly to a conveyance system using a boat, a boat system and a boat pool system. Conventional conveyance systems using boats are very similar to conveyance systems using other conveyance equipment. A boat is assembled, put into a water tank, transported by boat and unloaded or assembled in a port. In recent years, there is a tendency to save the cost of assembling a boat by disassembling a partially assembled boat and transporting by boat. As a result, a boat is disposed in a place for the longest period of time and marine life is also exposed to several chemical substances. Furthermore, if it is necessary to assemble a boat in an industrial zone or an industrial lake, an existing industrial water tank needs to be excavated and a new water tank or a tunnel needs to be constructed, which increases the cost and difficulty of construction. Furthermore, a conventional conveyance system uses a plurality of boats to form a loop. Here, it is required to water, maintain or pump out water in the loop, transport boats, Glycopeptide content of polyketide synthases from Streptomyces venezuelae, Streptomyces griseus and Bacillus subtilis. 1. De novo synthesised polyketides, including venezuelin (VSN), AT-2540C (alpha-methylvaleryl-CoA: polyketide synthase; PKS) and epothilone (EPO) from Streptomyces venezuelae, Streptomyces griseus and Bacillus subtilis contained 3-6% glycine and up to 6% sialic acid, while 1-2% glycine was present in the hydrolysed polyketide products. 2. In the large PKS modules of VSN and EPO from S. venezuelae, stoichiometric glycine represented 14-22% of the length of the protein (71-154 kDa). However, the largest module of AT-2540C from S. griseus (342 kDa) had glycine accounting for only 0.25% of the protein (16 kDa) while the glycine content of the smaller PKS modules was less than 0.1%. 3. Glycine residues with the reverse configuration [D or L] had an altered fluorescence intensity compared to the glycine [L or D] when excited at 295 nm. 4. The effect of quenching of the fluorescence was investigated. It was found that during isomerisation of glycine, the fluorescence of the L-configured peptide bond was quenched while that of the D-configured one was enhanced. 5. The combined results suggest that during biosynthesis of the polyketide synthase, glycine, bound in the active site of the enzyme, is removed and replaced with CoA before acylation of the amino acid. 6. These studies confirm that the glycine residues are not always involved in binding of the polyketide intermediate in PKS modules.Q: How to manually resize a FormControl while rendering an input with "flex" How do I manually resize a FormControl using the "flex" attribute in a when making a dynamic form with Vue?
